Election August 10

Conservative and C.C.F. leaders are loud in their criticism of Prime Minister Louis St. Laurent for setting the federal election date in mid-summer. They say that the town and city people will be on vacation and thus disfranchised, as they will be away from their home polling places on election day, and that farmers will be busy—perhaps too busy to vote.

It is known that the Liberal party planned an election to be held after four years, and another June election would undoubtedly have been held as in 1949 if it hadn't been for the Coronation. In choosing August 10 Mr. St. Laurent set a date as soon as possible after the Coronation, and just before farmers become engaged in fall harvest activities. An election in mid-summer will enable the newly-elected government to call a fall session, if necessary, and thus speed the business of Parliament.

To Albertans the idea of an August election is not new. The last three provincial elections have been called for August by Mr. Manning's Social Credit Government. Commercial travellers, and so forth at this election period can vote at the Advance polls in their constituency. Farmers will be through with haying, enjoying a brief spell between that of cutting of the cereal crops.

All in all, we see no real objection to the August election date and believe it will inconvenience no electors who wish to vote.

Burdensome Surpluses

The International Wheat Agreement, which will soon have been in force for four years, had as its preambles and primary object "to overcome the serious hardship caused to producers and consumers by burdensome surpluses and critical shortages of wheat."

The figures do not reveal that the Agreement has done much in keeping down burdensome surpluses. Quite the contrary in fact. The U.S. Department of Agriculture tells us that on March 1 this year, 1953, the four chief exporters—the United States, Canada, Australia and Argentina—had on hand for carry-over and export a total of 1,475 million bushels of wheat. The statistics reveal that on March 1, 1949 the year the Agreement started, there were on hand with these same exporters a total of 870 million bushels only, so it seems that in spite of four years under the Agreement the wheat surpluses of the world have actually increased by 69 per cent.

No students of agriculture, of course, ever thought when the Agreement was made that the Agreement by itself could have the slightest effect on the control of either surpluses or scarcities, for these are the result of the factors of international supply and demand only, and are not to be influenced very much by any artificial control.

Note and Comment

Sweden, according to recent reports, is said to have bought 11,000 to 12,000 tons of Australian wheat, presumably within the terms of the new International Wheat Agreement. The price is thought to be $8.28 per ton and to be shipped during the summer. Sweden has also reached an Agreement with Russia for maize and feeding cakes but no amounts are stated.

India is prepared to enter a long-term barter agreement with Russia for purchase of Russian wheat at the rate of 1,600,000 tons annually for the next five years.

Argentina's flaxseed production in 1952-53 was officially estimated at 22.4 million bushels, which almost doubles the 1951-1952 crop of 11.9 million bushels.

Father Lacombe

By SENATOR GERSHAW

Starting life as a farm boy, Father Lacombe became one of the great pioneer heroes of the West. He had skill and courage and, because of his selfless love of the warlike Indians, he gained their respect and homage.

The story is told that in 1695, a farmer on the banks of the St. Lawrence River, went out with his wife to work in the fields. While they were gone, a party of Algonquin Indians plundered their home and carried away their daughter. For five years the search for the lost daughter was fruitless. Then an uncle made a trip to Sault Ste. Marie with a party of traders and, meeting a band of Indians, they asked if any of them could speak French. Yes, it seemed there was a woman who could interpret. She was the stolen daughter. When the trading was over, she stole away with her two children in the white man's canoe and escaped pursuit. She was welcomed at home as one who had returned from the grave and one of these children was the ancestor of the great Christian missionary.

Albert Lacombe was educated by the Parish Priest and came to the West when Edmonton had a population of 150. He devoted his life to the teaching of his religion to the wandering tribes of Indians who then occupied this great land. They gave him a name meaning "Noble Soul" and his fame spread from the Cree in the North to the Blackfoot tribes in the South. He was so helpful in times of sickness and distress that he was referred to as the "Divine Man" and also the "Man with the great heart."

One Sunday night after his service in a camp at Battle River, the warriors of an enemy tribe burst in upon the gathering with war hoop and gunfire. The fighting lasted all night and in the morning the missionary, holding his cross aloft, advanced toward the enemy and asked them to cease the bloodshed. A bullet struck his forehead and blood ran over his face. Chief Crowfoot saw this and with all the force of his mighty voice called out, "You dogs, you have shot 'Good Heart,' you have killed your friend, the Man of Prayer." They fled in shame to the woods.

Father Lacombe worked among all the tribes of the Blackfoot Confederacy and he really loved the Indians and their customs, the Metis. He was a great help to the R.N.W.M.P. in their struggles against whiskey runners and bad men from the south. He started schools, churches and hospitals and, with volunteer help, built the first bridge constructed in the North West Territory.

When the first train reached Calgary, he was invited by the C.P.R. Directors into their car for lunch. He sat in the President's chair and, for one hour on that great day, by a vote of the directors, he was the head of the C.P.R. When the Riel Rebellion broke out, it was largely the devotion of the Blackfoot to Father Lacombe and their trust in him that kept them off the warpath. He understood the Indians and often pleaded for mercy for them before the courts.

He died at the age of 89, having lived a life of adventure beyond the wildest dreams of his youth.

"Add this our life, exempt from public haunt,
Finds tongues in trees,
Books in the running brooks,
Sermons in stones and good in everything."

Men Of Valor

Speaking of courage, think of the wives and mothers, the sweethearts and sisters of the men in uniform. Reflect upon the disrupting of homes, shattered dreams, the enduring of privation, sleepless hours at night, children crying for father, endless days of anxiety, receiving word that he is wounded, opening the telegram with its ominous word of doom. Yes, for sheerest bravery and undimittable fortitude, keep your eyes on the women. Again, hats off to human nature!

Industry's Story

One Canadian Company that is doing a magnificent job in developing our country is the Imperial Oil. Every man, woman and child in Canada must be as familiar with the name "Imperial Oil" as they are of any name but their own. Yet few, perhaps, know what a tremendous undertaking it is to prospect and drill for oil to supply the wheels of industry. And the Company rightly feels that the people have a right to know the facts about this industry.

That is why Imperial Oil is currently running a series of advertisements in this paper to bring their story to our readers. Anyone reading this series will find the "quiz" in the advertisement interesting and informative.

POOR OLD CLUCK

You find large hearts in the most unexpected places. Take for example a poultry farmer of my acquaintance who recently dug into his back pocket and shelled out a dollar and a half just to cheer up an old hen who was suffering an attack of the blues.

I work in a hatchery, you know, and a couple of weeks ago this fellow walked into the office, looked me sternly in the eye and though warning me not let out one snicker at what he was about to say, then launched his request.

"Bill," he said, "I have an old cluck at home, and she has troubles. She made herself a nest away back in a corner of the barn, and she laid twenty eggs. She has been sitting on those eggs faithfully for over three weeks, and has hatched only four chicks. That's not a very good showing, and the poor old girl is all upset about it. Absolutely down in the dumps. If you know what I mean."

"Now I just can't stand to see anyone even a silly old Plymouth Rock, rattling so much gloom and depression. So what I want to know is, how much will it cost me for about a dozen baby chicks that I can sneak into the nest when the old girl isn't looking?"

"A dollar and a half," I said.

"Sold," said the farmer.

LETTER TO LOUISA

Retired Farmer Refuses To Help Wife In Household Tasks; She Is Unhappy

Dear Louisa,
 My husband and I have been married forty odd years. I have worked on the farm with him and reared our children. Now they are married and have homes of their own.

My husband used to be so good to do little things that always need to be done around the home but for the last few years when I ask him to do something for me he says he will but he puts it off until we both get mad before he does it. It makes our home so unpleasant. What can I do about it? We are retired farmers.

Worried Wife

Answer:
 I suppose your husband is older and slower about doing things than he used to be. Or perhaps he thinks you nag him and it simply makes him act contrary.
 Why don't you refuse to get angry with him no matter how long he puts off doing the things he should and see if he doesn't improve?

LOUISA

A Jelf who signs herself "Undecided One" is very lonesome and upset over her present situation. She would like to go away to work but has had no special training as she stopped school to nurse a sick mother.

Now she hates to leave her father although a sister and her husband live in the other half of the house. The boy she loves neglects her and goes with other girls. He thinks she is too good to ever get a husband.

I think, Undecided, that you will be much happier keeping up your high standards than you would be by giving them up for a little bit of temporary popularity. The boy you think you love would probably make you a very poor husband and the best thing you can do is to try and get him out of your mind.

I think you should try to get a job in the town where your sister lives so that you can get away from your present surroundings. If you meet some other young men you will find it much easier to forget this one.

You are interested in nursing and you may be able to enroll in a hospital for a course. The sister who is at home can certainly look after your father for a few years and give you a chance to prepare yourself for life after he is dead and gone.

Don't sit still and worry but take steps to improve your situation.

LOUISA

Dear Louisa:
 I live with my daughter but she expects me to take care of the children all the time and never have any time to myself, while she and her husband go all the time.

I can get a job and I think I'll be happier. Do you think this will be treating her badly?

Tired Mother — ALA.

Answer:
 Take your job by all means. When your daughter realizes how much you have been doing, she will appreciate you more than she has in the past. Everyone needs some time of their own and perhaps after a year or so, if you care to come back, she will be glad to make an arrangement with you whereby you can have a certain amount of free time.

One evening a knock was heard at the kitchen door, and as I and the rest of the family were expecting my brother home that evening I thought he was trying to fool us. QUEBEC CITY (BUP) — The first visit here during the weekend, but their presence went almost unnoticed.

They came with a group of 50

to attend an annual rally of 3,500

They toured the city in a closed

"I must refuse any interview of croeur, the girls' chaperone.

At church services, the quint-uplets were separated and placed in different groups of girls to avoid attracting attention.

By Roland Wild, in the Calgary Albertan

I sat before a roaring fire in the Northern Alberta bush, 200 miles north of Edmonton. Temperature: zero.

I was reproducing, as closely as possible, the plight of an airman of a plane crash-landed in unknown country. The clothes I wore were from emergency supplies. The soup in the pot was from the plane's emergency rations. The flames lit up the dramatic orange and white sections of a parachute, making a tent for the four of us. Behind me, three fires were set ready for signals, in the triangle that is the R.C.A.F. signal of distress—green boughs for daytime smoke, small trees for night-time flames.

Our most valuable possessions were an axe, a shotgun, 24 ration boxes and a small red book entitled Land and Sea Emergencies. The book is the Bible of the Survival School of the R.C.A.F., the strangest school in North America. In 82 pages it gave me the laws of survival. It dictated every move I must make in the next six days—the size of this fire, a rough philosophy for use in the woods, even the fact that I must now rest instead of working.

The 24 ration boxes, six inches by four by four, each contain 10 hardback biscuits, six ounces of dehydrated beef and pork extract, one oatmeal block, cocoa beverage powder, 12 damp-proof matches, six lumps of sugar, one bar of chocolate, two ounces fotea, salt, chicken noodle soup (for one pint), one block of hard candy, one plastic spoon. Two sample meals suggested by a menu sheet placed in the bottom of each box are:

BREAKFAST

Oatmeal Block
Meat Bar (1/2)
Biscuits (2)
Tea, Sugar

SUPPER

Chicken Noodle Soup
Meat Bar (1/2)
Biscuits (2)
Cocoa Beverage

On this ration I am advised to reach a compromise to save my energies. The book instructs me how to make snares and traps for small animals, and with the shotgun I can supplement the menus with rabbits, squirrels, or even mice. But the book reminds me that I must not expend energy if it means that it makes me more hungry. For the same reason I must keep warm, for a chilled man needs more vitamins. My three considerations, always to be kept in the front of my mind are: 1, Warmth; 2, Food; 3, Signals.

This way, I can survive in the bush.

The course was put together and is supervised by the R.C.A.F.'s greatest expert on the Northland, F/L Scott Alexander, a strapping 40-year-old ex-Mountie who spent 10 years in the North, much of the time alone.

When planning the course, he at first assumed that in every air crew there would be one or two men who would know their way around in the great outdoors. After a time he revised his opinion: he goes on the assumption today that nobody knows anything. None of the instructors will say who makes the best bushman, town boy or country boy, but it is ironic that one of the best is from London, England, F/L Leonard Beasleigh, adjutant of the school and an instructor.

"Probably the easiest animal to catch is a rabbit," Beasleigh said, "but you can't live on rabbit for more than five days. Boil the whole animal, and eat the lot—stomach and entrails. Drink the water afterwards, and save the fat for waterproofing your boots."

He went on in the role of a Mrs. Beaton of the bush, with other recipes from one of the world's most unusual cookbooks, part of the R.C.A.F. Manual On Survival. "Porcupines are easily killed," he said, "and are rich and tasty. Slit the skin down the middle of the underside, and it will peel off like birch bark, and look out for the quills. Roasted Grasshoppers have a nutty flavor, not bad. Take the wings off and fry the bodies. Boiled mice are O.K. if you forget what you're eating, and the same goes for snakes. The best food plant in the North is lousewort: sound repulsive, but you can eat the root, very tasty . . ."

The second day there was nothing in the snares, and Beasleigh adjusted them and prepared the same menu of neutral-tasting "meat food product." He decided against hunting rabbits with the shotgun in order to save energy. "Above all, we don't shoot for sport," he said. "We need the ammunition for signalling, for one thing; three shots at dawn, and three at dusk." He insisted on the importance of everyone in camp being busy, without using up energy. So that night we were whittling sticks to make a tripod pantry in case the snare brought a reward, and pothooks to hang over the long fire.

Not till the fourth day, when Beasleigh was cutting ice on the creek for a water hole, did the snare produce anything for the pot, and then it was only a whisky jack that hung by the leg from the noose. The tiny bird, savoring the pot for four men, was the only variation from the monotonous rule of the rations.

The 30 students of the course scattered through the woods with Indian and trapper instructors, and ex-Mounties commissioned in the R.C.A.F., were faring as badly in an area apparently empty of game. Each camp sent a foraging party out with the shotgun every day, taking compass bearings to insure return, but without result. Our movements were becoming slower, and our preoccupation was with the next meal. The mind tended to exaggerate small details. Relationships were strained, and there were suddenly immense importance in the position by the fire, and layout of the sleeping bags in the cold tent at night, the infinitesimal details which well-fed men would ignore.

On the fifth day, the beef extract was tasteless and only the chocolate bar and candy were welcome. The snares remained empty. We imagined the despair of a crew checking the diminishing hopes as they prepared new signal fires, fired off their rockets and searched the skies for rescue.

But on the sixth day, when we marched slowly out of the bush to civilization, we had a new kind of confidence, with the knowledge that a forced landing and a week's wait for rescue would mean hardship but not necessarily death. The bush had lost some of its terror for the airman who flies over the least-hospitable terrain in North America, though one young officer said, "I was ready to eat the buttons off my parka," and another remarked, "It's easy to know your marks after this course; if you're alive, you've passed."

COUNCIL TO SPEND $57,880.00 ON ROADS THIS YEAR

MORINVILLE—On the second day of their sitting, councillors at the municipal meeting of May 14th and 15th dealt with the allocation of the municipal road grant, and the share provided by the M.D. of Morinville.

D. C. Ritchie advised that the government share will be $43,410.00 and the M.D.'s share will be $14,470.00. Mr. Ritchie also read to the council a letter from the Minister of Highways stressing that the capital road grant be spent mostly on the Riviere Qui Barre Road.

The full details of this final sitting of the council will be found in the extracts of the minutes which follow:

The Council reconvened at 10:00 o'clock a.m. with Councillors Walker, Meudner, Perrott and Ritchie and Reeve Schaffers all present, also D. C. Ritchie, District Engineer, from the Department of Highways.

N.E. 29-54-37-W4
Moved by Councillor Racine that the necessary searches be made in regard to this land and when proper papers have been drawn up that we approve the sale of this land under the supervision of the Agricultural Service Board. Carried.

Special Grants—Indian Reserves
Applications were now placed with D. C. Ritchie for special grants on the Alexander and Calahoo Indian reserves as follows:
Alexander Indian Reserve

No. 121
Graveling two miles from S.E. corner of the N.E. 1/4, 4-56-27-W4th on District Road No. 41-9-17, 1800.00.
Calahoo Indian Reserve

No. 122
Grading two miles from the S.W. corner of the S.E. 1/4, 26-54-27-W4th going west and northerly to the E.E. corner of the N.E. 1/4, 25-54-27-W4th, $9000.00.
The District Engineer advised the Council that this matter would be taken up with the Federal authorities, and that the confirmation of their decision in this regard would be mailed to the office.

Municipal Capital Road Grant
D. C. Ritchie now advised that the capital road grant for the Municipality was in the sum of $43,410.00. He also read to the Council a letter as received from the Minister of Highways in which it was stressed that this grant should be mostly spent on the reconstruction of the Riviere Qui Barre Road Five miles, from the Volmer correction line going north and west were mentioned as well as the ungraded 9 1/2 miles from the northern boundary south to two miles north of the Bandy road. The grade required must be built to District Highway Standard and the road in question must be completed within the next four years from the North end to the South end of the name, being District Road No. 41-9-18.

He also mentioned the building of four miles in the North end for this year but that would be left up to the Council. He referred the Council to the Amendments of the Municipal District Act as passed at the last session of the legislature which eliminates the Divisions for road construction and was advised that the Council was aware of this fact. It was proposed that this be completed this year as a far grade now exists on the remainder of the road as soon as the five miles in the southern portion are built. After discussion by the Council in this regard it was proposed that the agreement be drawn up and grant allocated as follows on a 75% and 25% basis:

District Road No. 41-9-18: From the N.E. 19-55-26-W4 going south 2 miles, west 1 mile, thence south 2 miles to the S.E. 1/4, 5-55-26-W4 to be graded this year bridges and culverts throughout the Municipal District. The work was now set out in accordance with Section 270 as amended to April 2, 1953, setting out what works of a public nature are recommended to be undertaken throughout the Municipal District.

Moved by Councillor Walker that the expenditures as prepared by the Council on Form "A" as required by the Act, be filed forthwith and that the same be approved by the Council, being all in accordance with the general allocation and grants to be earned in accordance with agreement entered into with the Department of Highways. Carried.

Next Meeting
Moved by Councillor Racine that we hold our next meeting on June 11, 1953, beginning at 10:00 o'clock a.m.

Adjournment
Moved by Councillor Walker that we adjourn this meeting at 8:00 o'clock p.m.

Quick Election Tour Of West, MP's Plan

OTTAWA—Prime Minister Louis St. Laurent will open his election campaign June 22 in Windsor, Ont. It was learned here, after his Windsor visit, the Prime Minister will head west, making a whirlwind tour of the four western provinces, visiting only the major cities.

According to present plans, it was said, Mr. St. Laurent will be in Alberta about mid-July, with visits to Edmonton and Calgary only.

It was not known whether the PM would make his quick western election tour by plane or by train.

After returning from the west, the Prime Minister will spend two weeks campaigning in Ontario where he is expected to make a more thorough campaign.

Quebec will also be given a "two weeks" treatment, coming after the Ontario campaign, it was said.

These campaign plans differ somewhat from the 1949 election campaign tour made by the Prime Minister. Then he made a thorough tour of the West before the election date was announced, and concentrated during the election on Quebec, Ontario and the Maritimes.

Reason given here why the West and the Maritimes will get only fleeting glimpses of the PM in comparison to Ontario and Quebec, lie in the PM's age and the number of seats each province has in the Commons.

Mr. St. Laurent is 71. He cannot be expected at his age, it was said, to make a detailed town-by-town election tour of the whole country. He has to concentrate on those areas where it will do the most for the Liberal party.

Ontario has 85 seats in the Commons, while Quebec has 75.

Each province will get two weeks of the PM's time. All four western provinces together have 70 seats, while the Maritimes has only 33.

Dream of Trans-Canada Travel On Hard Surfaced Highway Will Soon Be Reality

The motorist's dream of a first class, black-topped road from coast to coast is approaching fulfilment as a result of the government's Trans-Canada Highway program.

Plotted by Resources Minister Robert Winters, the plan calls for completion of a cross-country route by the end of 1956, and there is reason to believe the target date will be reached on schedule in most parts of the nation.

More than $100,000,000 has been committed to construction of the road to date. Half of this money has been advanced by the federal government and the remainder by the participating provinces.

When completed, the road will meet the best of modern highway standards. With 24 feet of pavement and 10-foot safety shoulders on either side, it will be considerably wider than most roads built in Canada before the war. Though some variations in this standard 22-foot pavement, along certain sections are being permitted, engineers are confident it will be as good a highway as the most critical motorist could demand.

Mr. Winters, himself an engineer, believes most participating provinces will complete their share of the work by the target date, and that traffic will be flowing over long portions of the road well before the end of 1956.

"There is no reason to believe," he told Parliament recently, "that there is any province that could not finish in the time allowed. They still have four more construction years to go and good progress is being made."

This year, the federal and provincial governments expect to spend more than $5,000,000 on the route, the largest amount appropriated in any single construction year since the seven-year agreements were signed in December, 1949.

How fast is work progressing? Measured in dollars, the construction record to date sounds less impressive than it really is. Most provinces, with encouragement from federal engineers, have been tackling the toughest sections of the road first. Ontario, for example, has spent $18,500,000 to date, and most of this has been on heavy work through the country north of Lake Superior. British Columbia is working on one of the most spectacular and costly sections through Hell's Gate canyon.

Engineers say it is virtually impossible to measure the mileage completed to date. Few sections have been finished in the final sense, and even those which are paved require further work on bridges, shoulders, etc. A considerable part of the money spent so far has gone toward the costly job of clearing a right-of-way through rock, muck and rolling terrain.

It is hoped here that removal of steel controls and a general easing of defence pressure will speed construction work in the next few years. The heavy demand for labour, materials and engineering personnel in other fields has cut heavily into the programme since 1949, but engineers think the fact the highway is as far ahead as it is in the face of these other claims is evidence of the importance attached to it by participating provinces. They see this year's record outlay as a further indication that the provinces are determined to complete the road.

When the Trans-Canada highway is completed, it will be one of the great scenic routes of North America, rivaling any other road on earth for mileage of constantly high standard and tourist attraction. It will be one of the largest engineering enterprises ever undertaken in Canada, characteristic of the pioneering spirit which drove railroad steel through the same rugged country in the 19th century.

Legal News Briefs

A very fine summer day made the farmers happy and all enjoyed the Farmers' Day. Here in Legal a sports day was organized by members of the Co-op and Credit Union. First, a softball game was played between the Credit Union and Co-op, in which the Credit Union won by a score of 19 to 18. Then a pee-wee baseball game was played, with teams of Legal and Morinville, in which Legal won by a score of 11 to 1. Finally there was another softball game for ladies, in which the team of Mrs. Van de Walle won. The day ended with a grand dance at the Lamarche Hall.

Last Monday evening the annual meeting of the Legal Co-op took place in the parish hall. A good number of members were present and also a few visitors. The business of the year 1952 was equal, if not better than that of last year. There was again discussion of the building of a new store. It is hoped that the project which has been on the agenda for a long time will finally be realized.

Notified last Sunday, Terence was Robert Louis Joseph Bouvier, newly born son of Mr. and Mrs. Wilfred Bouvier of Edmonton, and also Joseph Denis Lamoureux, newly born son of Mr. and Mrs. Jean Paul Lamoureux of Falher, though actually an employee in the district for an oil company. Congratulations to the happy parents.

Three very special meetings were held this week to discuss plans for the coming celebration of the Golden Jubilee of the parish. These were the meeting of the church trustees, the ladies of the parish and the Confraternity of Young Married Couples.

On Monday afternoon the official meeting of the Central Garage was also held, of which the owner is Mr. Lucien Bergevin. The garage was later remodelled to give better service to customers. Many customers and friends visited the remodelled garage and enjoyed a special show and a delicious lunch.

In Saint Marie, Michener, a train smashed James Emminger's automobile on the left side, spun it around and then smashed it again on the right side; the driver suffered minor injuries.

THE WHEAT POOL STORY

At quite a few shipping points local Pool Elevators have been "plugged". This created an unfortunate condition for Pool members there who want to deliver grain to their own facilities. In some instances Pool members have asked the question, "Why advertise asking for patronage of Pool Elevators when there is no room in the Pool Elevators at our point?"

It should be remembered, however, that there are 486 Alberta Wheat Pool country elevators and in many of these there is ample space for grain deliveries. Pool publicity is, therefore, directed to the farm people surrounding such delivery points.

Furthermore, a publicity program to be successful must be comprehensive and continuous. It is important that the farm people should be constantly reminded of the advantages of supporting the Alberta Wheat Pool.

This organization has been largely instrumental in keeping down costs of handling grain. Its presence and strength is an important division of economic life in this province has prevented a drift toward monopoly practices. Pool Elevators are operated on a cost basis with excess earnings returned to Pool members. Ninety-five per cent of Alberta Pool earnings in the 1951-52 crop year went right back into the farmers' pockets.

Pool Elevator policies are based on the desires of working farmers and on experiences gained over many, many years of co-operative effort. The democratic system under which the Wheat Pool is operated makes it responsive to the aims and desires of "operating farmers."

Alberta Wheat Pool publicity has constantly followed a pattern of public education. People in villages, towns and cities are continually made aware of the vital importance of agriculture to the economy of the province and to the Canadian nation. In no other province in Canada has agriculture's importance received such a deserved measure of publicity.

"The Wheat Pool Story" is an important one. Its aim is to build a lasting and growing farm co-operation which will be of service to agriculture in generations to come. Also to create a sympathetic atmosphere to every other farmer co-operative in this province.
